Hundred-Acre Wood Pasta

Prep: 5 mins

Cook: 30 mins

Serves: 4

It's no coincidence that this forest-inspired, one-pot pasta is filled with trunks and trees—or more accurately, penne pasta and bite-sized florets of broccoli and cauliflower. Lemon zest and fresh dill add the brightness of a little bear we know.

Ingredients

- 3 slices of stale whole grain bread
- 2 tbsp olive oil
- 340g penne pasta
- ½ a lemon, zest and juice
- 2 tsp salt
- ½ tsp black pepper
- ½ head of broccoli, cut into florets
- ½ head of cauliflower, cut into florets
- 2 tbsp chopped fresh dill, plus more to garnish
- 125g goats cheese

Method

1. Preheat the oven to 220 °C.
2. Tear the bread into small bits and pieces. On a baking sheet, toss with the olive oil, then spread evenly across the pan. Bake until golden and crisp, this should take about 8 minutes.
3. In a large skillet, combine the pasta, lemon zest and juice, salt and pepper with 1 liter of water. Bring it all to a boil, then reduce to a simmer and let it cook for 5 minutes.
4. Next, add the broccoli and cauliflower to cook for about another 5 minutes, stirring occasionally until the pasta is tender.
5. Stir in the dill and goats cheese. Then toss until well coated and season with more salt and pepper, if you like.
6. Transfer to a large bowl and top with the bread crumbs and, optionally, more dill before serving. Enjoy!
